

ABOUT

Jackson Ford

My name is Jackson Ford and I am a freshman Biology major from Kansas City, Missouri. Currently, I am minoring in Cultural Awareness in Healthcare and Chemistry (hoping to dual major in chem and bio), and I am a member of the pre-med program. Furthermore, I belong to the John V. Roach Honors College and I also apart of their mentor program. I currently live in Milton Daniel hall where I compete in sand volleyball and soccer for my dorm.

In my free time, I love to play pickleball, basketball or sand volleyball with friends, or going on bike rides in the neighborhoods surrounding TCU. Additionally, when time allows, I love to go on random road trips and spend a night or two in a new place. Outside of class I officiate soccer for the Texas high-school Athletics association and I am also a pharmaceutical tech.
